The Storm King Highway.

"Monarch of American Mountain Highways," is the fitting characterization of the Storm King Highway. Only comparable to it among the worlds great roads is the Axenstrasse Road, which is part of the road from Italy to Switzerland.

Carved out of the granite precipice sides of the Lofty Storm King Mountains.

More than 400 feet below lies stretched before the surprised eyes of visitors, the beautiful Hudson River.

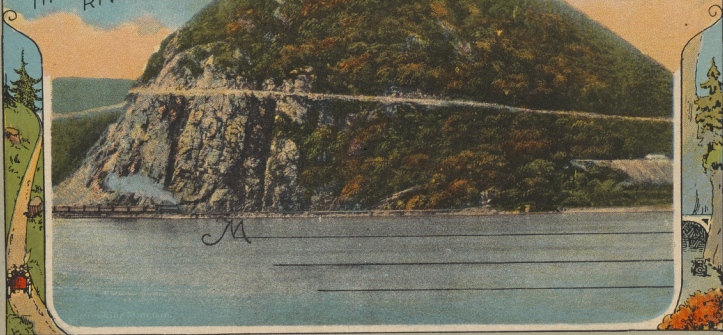

The patriot soldiers of George Washington's command who traversed to West Point, then a trip of weeks, would surely be amazed if whisked over the same trip, in our modern automobiles, in 15 minutes.

The distance between Newburgh and West Point, "Air Line" is but 10 miles, yet the road saves 22 miles by machine, over the old route. It is considered the most expensive road in the world.

The Storm King Highway was constructed by Contractor John L. Hayes of Yonkers.
